

Executive Proclamation

Office of the Governor

Whereas, The United States Army is celebrating its 232nd birthday on June 14, 2007; and,

Whereas, On this day, with great pride, the United States Army will recognize thousands of young Americans who have answered, and continue to answer, the call to service. Those young men and women have shown, and continue to show, a profound sense of duty, honor, integrity and courage; and,

Whereas, The All-Recruited Army is a uniquely American phenomenon that began as an experiment at the height of the Cold War, and the quality of the volunteer force remains unprecedented; and,

Whereas, South Dakota families are recognized by the Army as making their sons and daughters strong, and the Army in-turn makes them Army strong; and,

Whereas, American soldiers, many from the great state of South Dakota, are voluntarily foregoing comfort, facing hardship and sacrifice and confronting danger in defense of the nation; and,

Whereas, The United States Army is, and will remain, a testament to the success of South Dakota Army recruiters in attracting the nation's best and brightest to become An Army of One:

Now, Therefore, I, M. Michael Rounds, Governor of the state of South Dakota, in recognition of this important event, do hereby proclaim June 14, 2007, as

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the state of South Dakota, in Pierre, the Capital City, this Twenty-third Day of May in the Year of Our Lord, Two Thousand and Seven.

M. Michael Rounds
